F. D. Pierce Knows What Is Making Clean Scalps.

In order to rid your scalp of filthy dandruff you must kill the germ.
There is a hair dressing called Parisian Sage which is now sold in every town in America, that is guaranteed by F.
D. Pierce to eradicate dandruff, stop falling hair, splitting hair and scalp itch in two weeks, or money back.

If you have dandruff get a large 50 cent bottle today and rid yourself of it. Remember that if dandruff germs are not destroyed in time, the hair will surely fall out and oneness will follow.

Albany Church Records.

Before the ordaining of E. W. Kellogg Wednesday, Jan. 24, 1827, council met according to agreement and opened by prayer, adopted the following resolutions. Whereas the evils of intemperance are very great and very prevalent at the present day and whereas great and laudable efforts are making in many places to counteract this evil and as ecclesiastical councils and ministers of the gospel ought to be ready to promote every good work, voted that the ecclesiastical council request the committee of arrangements not to provide any spirituous liquors, nor offer any to the council on the present occasion.

Wm. A. Chapin, scribe Kiah Bailey, moderator.

(On March 10, 1833, the pastor of church at Albany, Rev. E. E. Kellogg requested the calling of a council to dismiss him from the pastorate at A lbany.)

Shawsheen.
"At a meeting held at the town house March 13, 1833, voted to comply with the request of the pastor as above: Ephraim Carter, Geo. R. Bosworth and Luther Delano a committee appointed to call the council and the time fixed March 27, 10 o'clock a. m., at the town house. They convened with brothers from the following churches: Greensboro, Rev. Jacob N. Loomis, pastor; Craftsbury, Rev.

Wm. A. Chapin, pastor; Bro. Benjamin Clark, delegate; Glover, Rev.
Reuben Mason, pastor; Coventry, Rev.
Ralden A. Watkins, pastor; Bro. Silas Sears, delegate; Rev. Bowman Brown also invited to sit with them. After hearing the statements they voted to adjourn to house of Dr. Bill. After further inquiries they found the pastor would remain, and the church desired him to, "therefore voted that we adjourn this council till the first day of May next, at 1 o'clock p. m., with the confident expectation that previously to this period things will be arranged that it will not be expedient to dissolve the relation between the pastor and the church. The council are happy to find that there is such a warm attachment existing between the pastor and the church. The council met again May 1st and adjourned until May 22, when they met again and after long debates and remarks decided to dissolve the relation between pastor and church. Recorded June 1, 1833 by

E. W. Kellogg, acting pastor.

RESOLUTION.

Viewing the evils of intemperance so great, that these have been fully developed within a few past years, that intemperate habits are induced by the moderate use of stimulating liquors and hence that the use of such liquors in health is a stepping stone to drunkenness, and that as the professing friends of God we are solemnly bound to "avoid all appearance of evil," and looking at the painful afflictions of so many churches from this evil and feeling that it is a duty which we owe to God, to His church and to the world, to ourselves and our children. Therefore Resolved, that in the future, admission of all members to this church, we require of them (if they are not already faithful and ho-rorable members of a respectable Temperance society) a pledge to this church, as a condition of membership with us, that they will adopt The temperance principles as they are adopted by Temperance societies of the present day that is, that they will use no stimulating liquors themselves, nor suffer their families or persons in their employ to use them, except in good faith as a medicine and also to discontinue their use in every possible way as above.

The foregoing preamble and resolutions were laid before the church at their regular meeting on the last Friday in June 1832.

With the Boys of Sixty-one.

We can hardly realize that only fifty years ago from the towns and cities in which we now live, men were rushing to the South to take up arms against their countrymen in the greatest civil war in history. Nor can we appreciate the eagerness with which news from the front was sought by those left behind, nor the difficulty in sending information in those days, when the telegraph was in its infancy and the telephone was unknown.

The Boston Journal was particularly fortunate to have Charles Carl-ton Coffin as their representative with the Union Army. Physically unable to enlist, he sought a position as correspondent and served The Journal throughout the war. Often it was possible for him to get in touch with The Journal only after a hard ride on horseback to the telegraph office, but he never lost courage, and oftentimes the Journal gave the world the first news of actions vital to the success of the North. One of his great "scoops" was on the Battle of Gettysburg, first news of which he sent to The Journal, from which it was wired to President Lincoln at Washington.

In the same manner President Lincoln first learned that the Stars and Stripes were again flying over Fort Sumpter and the city of Charleston.
In his work he was ably seconded by Ben: Perley Poore, who was the Washington correspondent of the Journal during the war.

The Boston Journal is reprinting from its files of fifty years ago newsy and interesting paragraphs regarding the great battles and prominent men of that period, accompanying each by the comments of a veteran who saw many of the notable events and figures of the Civil War.

This column will be a daily feature of The Boston Journal, and united with the woman's page, financial news, able editorials and snappy sporting items, will increase the interest with which The Boston Journal is received by many thousands of good England families.

In the Age of Science.

The bear of a man was still, of course, a bear of a man. No artifice could substantially alter that fundamental condition of life, the result being that he glowered at his breakfast much as usual.

"Nothing but proteins, carbohydrates and ash content. Can't you manage to get something different once in a while?" he growled.

What, in fine, had the advances of science done to ease the lot of the patient wife? Was there less dismay in store for her?—Puck.

HOUSEHOLD

The Last Arrival.

There came to port last Sunday night
The queerest little craft, Without an inch of rigging on:
I looked and looked and laughed!
It seemed so curious that she Should cross the unknown water And moor herself within my room—
My daughter! oh, my daughter!

Yet by these presents, witness all, She's welcome fifty times,
And comes consigned in hope and love And common meter rhymes, She has no manifest but this:
No flag floats o'er the water; She's rather new for our marine—
My daughter! oh, my daughter!

Ring out wild bells, and tame ones, too!
Ring out the lover's moon!
Ring in the little worsted socks!
Ring in the bib and spoon!
Ring out the Mus! Ring in the nurse!
Ring in the milk and water!
Away with paper, pen and ink!
My daughter! oh, my daughter!

HOMEMADE FUN IN THE HOME.

The other day I heard a woman say that women could not keep accounts.
Then she went on to explain—very wisely, too—that when we keep accounts there are many items to be considered beside the money. We are to consider the time and strength spent, and the happiness, comfort and leisure gained. And in keeping household accounts we must allow a fair proportion for fun.

Fun—old-fashioned, laughter provoking fun! In how many households it has become quite obsolete! How many families do you see that enjoy amusing themselves instead of being amused? Who would rather get up an impromptu charade party than go to the theatre? Let us hope that none of us are so poor that we do not know one such family.

There is no fun so wholly satisfactory as the homemade variety; you cannot buy any fun in the best theatres, in the wildest amusements, or in the most expensive entertainments that can compare with it.

And it is not hard to make. Like all things it is largely a matter of habit. If you have never formed the habit, begin today. You may be a little awkward in your first attempts, but persevere and you will be surprised what an enormous crop of enjoyment you can get from a few se-dlings.

To make the home a centre of wholesome food and living is, of course, the woman's peculiar privilege.

If you did not teach your children how to play when they were little, begin now. Probably your husband needs to be taught, too, but if you have trained him properly along other lines he will not be hard to instruct.

I knew a very serious young married couple who lived in grave decrepousness. Their conversation was sometimes witty, but never hilarious.

A young girl came visiting and the second day she sent out and bought half a dozen soap bubble pipes. I don't know just how she started, but by the time I arrived I found all three of them blowing bubbles. They were blowing bubbles in breathless interest—in wildest glee—in absolute forgetfulness of time, or age, or station. They were experimenting, and laughing, and they were as happy as children.

Foolish? I'm not so sure. I think they all ate with more enjoyment, slept with sweeter restfulness and came back to the realities with fresher spirits than if they had dined with the Czar. Let's have more fun in our homes. More frolics, more games, more merriment! Let us play more Never mind the trouble or the wear and tear! It is worth a little trouble and a little ingenuity. It is a sure investment and one that brings big returns.—Ex.

Chocolate Caramels.

Two cups white sugar, 1 cup New Orleans molasses, 1 cup chocolate, 1 cup milk, butter 1/2 size of egg. Boil 1 hour, stirring constantly to keep from burning. Pour in tin, cut in squares and wrap in waxed paper.

Cocoanut Tapioca Cream.

Make the usual tapioca cream with the pearl tapioca. When cold flavor with vanilla, then stir in a cupful of shredded cocoanut, mixing it well.
Cover with sweetened and delicately flavored meringue and dot top with 1-inch cubes of currant jelly. Serve cold with sponge cake.

Layer Cake.

Will you try my layer cake? I usually make three layers out of it, although four can be made, and then you would have two Washington pies.
It is soft also. 1 cup sugar, 1 cup butter or butter and lard mixed, 2 eggs, 1 cup water, about 2 cups of flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, vanilla or lemon.

Indian Pudding.

One cup sugar, 1 cup Indian meal and a little salt, mixed well together.
Scald with 1 quart milk in buttered dish, add 1/2 cup molasses, 1 egg well beaten, and stir well. Then add 1 cup of cold milk and do not stir.
Bake in a slow oven about 3 hours, and add a cup of cold milk twice while baking. Pour it all over the top and do not stir. This makes the bottom like whir. Cover while baking.

His Inheritance.

"And now," said Professor Long as he greeted Henry Peck, "what shall we make of your little boy—a lecturer?
He has a taste for it."

"I know he has," replied the male parent; "he inherits the gift from his mother."

A Helpless Invalid

Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

A woman who is sick and suffering, and won't at least try a medicine which has the record of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, is, it would almost seem, to blame for her own wretchedness. Read what this woman says:

Richmond, Mo.—"When my second daughter was eighteen months old I was pronounced a helpless invalid by specialists.
I had a consultation of doctors and they said I had a severe case of ulceration. I was in bed for ten weeks, had sinking spells, and was pronounced to be in a dangerous condition. My father insisted that we try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and brought me six bottles. I soon began to improve, and before it had all been taken I was as well and strong as ever,—my friends hardly recognizing me so great was the change."—Mrs.
Woodson Branstetter, Richmond, Mo.
